TAFTVILLE

The Weequonoc school observed Arbor Day Friday, and in the afternoon a talk was given on Trees, Birds and Other Plant Life. The teachers had a supply of flowers on hand to illustrate the life of a flower.

A few of the younger boys of this village enjoyed a swim in the river but did not stay in very long as the water is still very cold. This is a sure sign that warm weather is here.

While playing baseball, John Donald broke the index finger of his left hand. Richard Kyle was a visitor at the home of his parents on South A street, Sunday.

John Sullivan and Thomas Smith of Norwich were visitors in the village on Sunday.

Canes are making their appearance on the river along the dam. The third decade was worked on a number of candidates at the K. of C. rooms on Providence street, Sunday afternoon, by the Narragansett Council, K. of C. of Weequonoc.

NEOPHAN SUPREME LODGE

TO MEET IN BOSTON

Tuesday, in Tremont Temple, Boston, the third annual session of the supreme lodge of the New England Order of Protection will convene with Supreme Warden H. William Scott of Barre, Vt., presiding. Supreme lodge officials and representatives from the six New England states to the number of about 200 will be in attendance.

But very few changes will be made this year among the leading officials on the supreme lodge at the annual election. Judge H. William Scott will be re-elected as supreme warden of the jurisdiction. George E. Howe of Worcester, Mass., will remain for a second term as supreme vice warden, and Daniel M. Frye of Summerville, Mass., supreme secretary and Hon. John P. Sanborn of Newbury, N. H., supreme treasurer, will be re-elected to the positions they now occupy.

Along the lines of new business there will be several important resolutions considered, and Connecticut representatives have one to present that will prove of direct interest to every member in the order. This year Connecticut sends 15 representatives, and with others on various committees has about 25 votes.

An event of importance will be the reception that will be tendered to Daniel M. Frye of Summerville, Mass., who has served as supreme secretary of the order for 25 years up to Dec. 12, 1919, also to Hon. John P. Sanborn of Newbury, N. H., who has served 29 years as supreme treasurer to April 15, 1929. This reception will be held the night before the supreme lodge session in Loretime hall, Tremont Temple, at which time there will also be a large class initiation. Twenty-two lodges will be represented in the class with candidates. Mayflower lodge of Brockton, Mass., will be the degree work.

JACOBS DIVORCE SUIT

REACHES SUPREME COURT

Arguments in the case of Gladys W. Jacobs against Raymond Jacobs of Hartford, begun the morning hours of the supreme court of errors in Hartford on Friday. In June, 1918, the plaintiff brought suit for divorce on the ground of intolerable cruelty. They were married January 15, 1917. According to the testimony offered at the trial the defendant was alleged to have choked his wife several times, declared that he loved another woman, and that he threw food and plates from the dining table at her. At other times it was further testified, he was kind and considerate, lavish in his expenditures and let the plaintiff do as she would. One summer he hired a cottage at the shores, bought her a new automobile and paid for her chauffeur. The Jacobs cottage at the shore was at Ocean beach.

BONDSMAN IS CHARGED

FOR THE ELDER GIAMASTACHIA

Giacoine Giamastrachia, of Norwich, who is one of those charged with statutory burglary in connection with the Glen Woolen mill case now on trial in the supreme court at New London, was surrendered by his bondsman in court on Friday and was brought to the jail here by Deputy Sheriff Oscar L. Main.

Saturday another bondsman for $1,000 was found and Giamastrachia secured his release on bonds. He is the father of Matteo Giamastrachia who is now on trial in the court.

Sent to Reform School.

Abraham Monkowitch of Stamford, 12, was committed to the reform school for boys at Meriden by Judge James H. Webb in the criminal superior court at New London Friday. The boy was charged with burglary and was arrested while attempting to break into a store in Mystic.

After a man has suddenly struck it rich he will be surprised at the number of people who grasp him by the hand and say, "I told you so."

True Mother the Most Wonderful Thing

A group of four sacred songs by Harold S. Tripp, Boston soloist, featured the Sunday evening service at the Central Baptist church. Mr. Tripp's selections were I Heard the Voice of Jesus Say, by Harris; There Is No Death by Harris; O Loving Savior, by Gluck and Morning and Evening, by Spiker. Mr. Tripp has a tenor voice of fine quality which was displayed to advantage in the programme he gave. Rev. Arthur F. Purkiss, pastor of the church, preached a special sermon on Mothers' day. In part Rev. Mr. Purkiss said:

Women should have the vote if they want it, and from all indications they want it, and want it badly. Women shall not reach the supremacy in human life by it though. The most wonderful thing in human life is to be a true mother.

It is quite true, said Joseph de Maistre, that women have produced no liad, Jerusalem Delivered nor Hamlet, nor Phaedra, nor Paradise Lost, nor Tartuffe. They have designed no church of St. Peter, composed no Messiah, carved no Apollo Belvedere, painted no Last Judgment. They have invented neither algebra nor telescopes, nor steam engines. But they have done something far greater and better than this, for it is at their knees that upright and virtuous men and women have been trained, the most excellent production in the world.

The mother is the mother of genius, for the mothers of geniuses have been as a rule more celebrated than the fathers. No doubt can possibly exist that the mother is the mother of character. Many children overcome the handicap of a worthless father. Very few children of a worthless mother. In one of the school reports of England, it is stated that a very large factory employing thousands of young people made inquiry into the mothers' characters, but not that of the fathers. This does not underestimate the value of character in men, it simply emphasizes the wonderful value of motherhood.

SIX GENERATIONS SLEEP IN

NO. STONINGTON BURIAL GROUND

There are few family plots in New England cemeteries where six generations lie sleeping side by side, but in the Brown family plot at the Union cemetery in North Stonington six, possibly seven, generations are represented. Says the Western Sun, the work of burying the several generations in a plot has just been completed by the removal of the remains of Jedediah Brown, Jr., and his daughter, Nancy Brown, an old burying ground in North Stonington for many years deserted, to the Union cemetery. The work was done by Cyrus Henry Brown, the genealogist of the Brown family, whose great-grandfather was the same Jedediah Brown, Jr. Mr. Brown, the genealogist, has spent many years carrying out his desire to see his ancestors buried side by side and the task has just been completed.

The exhuming of the remains of Jedediah Brown, Jr., who was buried in 1797 at the age of 69, is of interest in that part of the vertebra were found intact under the remains of the coffin lid. A P. 69" worked in brass nails. This small remnant of the coffin lid was held together by the nails. The tombstone of Jedediah Brown was an elaborate affair which it is believed was brought to this country from England. This is the sixth body removed from the old burying ground which is now far in the woods away from any road. There are now interred in the lot at the Union cemetery with engraved headstones Jedediah Brown, Nabby Brown, Thaddeus Brown, Roswell Brown, Esther (Williams) Brown, Benjamin Brown, William Brown, and his wife, Theda Brown, Cyrus W. Brown, Jr., and wife, Elizabeth Babcock Brown. In the removal of the body of Jedediah Brown, Jr., Mr. Brown, the genealogist, has discovered that the date of Jedediah Brown's death was 1797 instead of 1791 as recorded on page 20, line 5 of the Brown genealogy of 1907.

COMPENSATION AWARDED TO

STATE HIGHWAY EMPLOYEE

An award of $20.53, compensation for nine and 2-7th weeks, and the payment of all bills was made in the compensation case of Albert Aborn of South Coventry, Vt., the Connecticut State Highway department by Compensation Commissioner J. J. Donohue after a hearing and a thorough investigation of the case. At the hearing it was found that on November 7, 1919, while alighting from a truck owned and operated by the respondent, the claimant received an injury to his left ankle and heel, caused by the wheel of the truck.

It is further found that said injury was received by the claimant while he was engaged in his work on the highway in the Coventry section and that said injury arose out of and in the course of his employment.

At the hearing the claimant testified that he worked on the day following, but that he was at all times thereafter disabled because of the injury up to Jan. 29, 1920, when he entered the employ of another company in Jewett City. Claimant first sought medical attention on Nov. 14, 1919, and was under treatment until the last part of January, 1920, the attending physician testifying at the hearing that the injured foot healed slowly as it was a contusion and abrasion which penetrated rather deeply into the tissues.

In view of the facts as founded the claimant is entitled to compensation during the period of disability deducting one week's time during which he testified he worked and he is also found to be entitled to the payment of his medical and hospital bills.

neat rooms, those wholesome meals, that atmosphere that surrounds us, that love and guidance and sympathy, that come to us—we only appreciate it when it is gone.

Realists make a statement worth thinking about when he said that there were ten men to one woman in the underworld. It is at our mothers' knees we first learn to pray. She it is that starts us to Sunday school. She it usually is that watches our language, that leads our first few tottering steps in the path of virtue.

Atheism was rampant at the time of the birth of our country. John Randolph said that he would have been an atheist, had it not been for the memory of his mother teaching him to pray when a child. My mother taught me to pray when I was a child and never since that have I neglected it. For years I was out of Christ, living in sin, but I never forgot to kneel and pray before I went to bed.

Sometimes you stand alone in your fight for God and the religious life. The influence of the father is away from Christ. It is an unfortunate thing. But it may act as a challenge to the finest and richest powers of your womanhood. Trust devotion to Jesus Christ, health and richness of spirit that comes from Him, will give you power in your home. Let not your heart be troubled. You believe in Jesus Christ and let Him have your life. Don't carry the burden yourself. Give it to Jesus. He will take the fever out of life. He will give you strength of will and power.

Sometimes the children wander away from Christ. Be praying but not nervous. Walk with your head above the clouds. Monica's boy didn't come to Christ for years, but he came. He more anxious about yourself than about him. Be strong. Be of good courage, be sympathetic. Let His spirit control. They will come. I can not close my sermon without a word to the girls and young women. Motherhood is the greatest experience and the greatest privilege of human life. Live for it. You can't fit yourself for it when it comes. You are preparing for it now. Resolve that the contribution of your life to the Kingdom shall be a wonderful and a glorious one. Resolve that that holy thing you shall bring into the world shall rise up and call you blessed because of what you are doing for the world's mothers. Many of you could not improve upon yours if you did. But you can choose what kind of a mother your children shall have. If the gift of motherhood shall come to you.

NORWICH ZONE DEPUTY

FOR INTERNAL REVENUE

Collector of Internal Revenue James J. Walsh has completed the reorganization of his field force, under a plan which will be put into operation immediately.

The district of Connecticut will be divided into five divisions, and a division chief in charge, and each division subdivided into zones with one or more zone deputies in each zone. Each division is to have a headquarters office.

Division headquarters, where offices will be open during business hours every day, will be located in New Haven, Bridgeport, and of course the main office in Hartford.

The five divisions have been subdivided into zones. Division No. 1, which comprises Hartford, part of Tolland and Middlesex counties, has been divided into three zones, the headquarters of the zone being Hartford, New Britain and Middletown.

Division No. 2, which comprises the greater portion of New Haven county, is also divided into three zones with zone headquarters at New Haven, Meriden and Ansonia.

Division No. 3, which comprises Fairfield county and part of Litchfield county, is also divided into three zones, with zone headquarters at Bridgeport, Stamford and Danbury.

Division No. 4, which comprises part of New Haven county and part of Litchfield county is divided into two zones, with zone headquarters at Watertown and Torrington.

Division No. 5, which comprises New London county, Windham county, and part of Tolland county, is divided into three zones, with zone headquarters in New London, Norwich and Willimantic.

It is believed by Collector Walsh that by this arrangement the work of the department will be expedited and the taxpayers and citizens of the state will be better served.

This is the famous test that proves that "Neponset" is the wonderfully strong, durable and long-wearing Floor Covering its makers claim it to be.

emphasis is put on the simple but effective grouping of the fairies.

Miss Suzanne Higgins, in cupid costume, interpreted The Cupid, a story of two victims of cupid told with many cute attitudes and ways but with childlike simplicity.

As light as a fairy, Miss Lucy Wilcox, in Grecian costume, gave a beautiful Greek dance, and Giovanna, an old English dance, was given by Master Frisbie Mitchell and Miss Alice Higgins.

Then followed an old French minuet given by the following couples in costume: Master Sherrod Ingals, Miss Emily Hildwell, Master Frisbie Mitchell, Miss Marion Mitchell, Master Donald Royce, Miss Louise Higgins, and Misses Elaine Wilson, Betty Spear, Estelle Parkhurst, and Elizabeth Johnson.

After this number Miss Elaine Wilson interpreted with grace and ease Nevin's Barcarata. Misses Marion Mitchell and Eleanor Smith interpreted gracefully The Song of the Robin.

A Trilogy of the Day was the next dance. This is a masterpiece of dance composition. Miss Lois Latimer as Aurora, scattering flowers from her garland of morning glories and listening to the birds, and, finally vanishing, depicted the cheerful hope and fresh purity of the new day.

Miss Elizabeth Collins appeared as a shepherdess playing the Greek flute and frolicking with her lambs under a golden midday sun.

Miss Elizabeth Higgins interpreted Night. The sublimity of darkness was first shown, then the festival of elves and the end was a sort of bacchanal.

While refreshments were being served, Miss Claudine Walcott of Providence, entertained with a piano solo, Chopin's Polonaise, which was heartily applauded, and to which she responded with an encore.

The programme was concluded with a march, at the end of which each child was presented with a dainty May basket. The ushers were Misses Mildred Engler, Helen Munz, Louise Brush and Dorothy Phillips. The interpretive dances were from Chalfin.

In the evening, Mrs. Andrews' Academy class, numbering sixty, held its closing reception in the Wareham House hall room. There were present in addition to the class many guests including several from out of town. Music was furnished by an orchestra of seven pieces. There were refreshments of fruit punch and iced cream.

BISHOP FROM CHINA AIDED

BY ST. PATRICK'S PARISHIONERS

Rev. Joseph Taccini, D. D., bishop of East Honan, China, addressed the congregation at the three masses in St. Patrick's church Sunday and the generous offering of the day was devoted to his efforts. Bishop Taccini described his work as a missionary in China since 1895 and spoke interestingly of his province of 17,000 Catholics, with 12 priests, in a total population of 7,900,000. During his 16 months in America for the purpose of obtaining priests and Sisters as teachers he has been able to secure three priests—two from the diocese of Pittsburgh and one from Erie, while six Sisters of the Order of Providence, from Indiana, are also to go to China, leaving in October, to teach in the schools of his diocese, the first American Catholic nuns to go to that mission field.

As noted already in The Bulletin, the offerings of the different churches visited by Bishop Taccini go toward providing the $10,000 required now, under the high cost of transportation, to get the missionaries from America to the bishop's province. Bishop Taccini came to Norwich Saturday from Philadelphia and was the guest of Rev. J. H. Broderick, who commended his cause to the generosity of the parishioners.

STEREOPHON LECTURE

The Sunday afternoon meeting at the Y. M. C. A. was devoted to an illustrated talk on the Life of David. The usual short song service preceded the showing of the pictures.

Secretary Edwin Hill told the story accompanying the thirty or more colored slides, taking occasion to draw present day parallels from many of the instances. The fall of Babylon, Mr. Hill said, was due to the same cause which had been the ruin of other nations, the lack of Sabbath Day observance and all that implies. Is there not cause for us to judge the trend of our times lest the pendulum of popular opinion swing too far to the other extreme of the Puritanical Sabbath?

Swain's orchestra furnished the music.
